Who We Are You might be wondering, how exactly do I express myself with art? That's where The Elements of Art come in. You might remember these from art class. Just like writers use words to tell a story, artists use these visual elements to express themselves and start their art conversation. Elements of Art You might be wondering, how exactly do I express myself with art? That's where The Elements of Art come in. You might remember these from art class. Just like writers use words to tell a story, artists use these visual elements to express themselves and start their art conversation. Get Inspired by Color Get color inspiration from the world around you. Color is everywhere—your clothing, your bag, even a tissue box—there are probably patterns and designs with interesting color palettes surrounding you now! I'm sure there are things you bought because you liked the colors, so use those things that you love as inspiration. A Spectrum of Emotion Color can be a great way to express yourself and define your mood. When you sit down to color, ask yourself, "How do I feel today? How can I use color to express that feeling?" Sometimes you might even feel something you can't quite put into words, but you can express it with color.

Gave it as a gift, she loves it. Pictures are excellent for doodling. Really inspirational sayings on some pictures. I am tempted to pick up more. Good for colored pencils or gel pens.
