Synopsis

Clothing is not an option, and bare-naked skin rules the day! Whether they are in the shower, in the pool or in the sea – Dylan Rosser's men have two things in common: They are always as sexy as can be – and they are always wet. Hence the title of his newest photobook: Wet. The photographer has been shooting the male nude for almost two decades and has worked with beautiful men from all around the globe. Based mainly in Ibiza (Balearic Islands), he often works in other locations like NYC, Paris, Los Angeles, Cape Town, Bali, Sydney. This photo book includes several never-before-seen images taken in the Mediterranean Sea, pools in Palm Springs and Los Angeles, showers all over the world, as well as some studio work. Since Dylan never works with clothing, here instead he uses water, almost like a fabric, washing over the body. Wet is a careful selection of tantalizing images showing a mix of full frontal nudes (flaccid and erect), striking portraits, and a close-up focus on skin, water and texture.

Originally from South Africa, Dylan Rosser started his career in the graphic design field, working on various lifestyle magazines in Cape Town. Starting out as a Junior Designer, he worked his way up to Art Director before moving to London in 1998. It was this move that brought about his change in direction, although his graphic design background still shows through in his work today. His work, featuring models from the UK as well as abroad, focuses on the sculptural beauty of the male form. Working with light and shadow, his style brings out the athleticism and sensuality of his subjects.

His work, featuring models from the UK as well as abroad, focuses on the sculptural beauty of the male form. Working with light and shadow, his style brings out the athleticism and sensuality of his subjects. Dylan's WET project is all new imagery with the theme being water and of course men! The water of the theme is both in stretches of natural sources - the Mediterranean Sea, pools in Palm Springs and Los Angeles as an accoutrement adorning his spectacular models, and as a sensual mediator to speak to the beauty of his natural men using water as the only clothing source. The result is a book of sculpted male nudes in poses that are both shadowed in some and full frontal in others. It is a very sensual collection of some of the most magnificent raw forms Dylan has ever gathered. A fine book on first class paper stock with very richly saturated color photographs of some of the most magnificent physiques imaginable. Grady Harp, August 17
